

The Center for Bio-Ethical Reform's Privacy Policy

The Center for Bio-Ethical Reform (CBR) has created this privacy statement in order to demonstrate our firm commitment to your privacy. The following discloses our information gathering and dissemination practices.

CBR is committed to protecting the privacy of those who contact us. As a general rule CBR does not rent or sell our mailing lists. CBR will on rare occasions exchange lists with organizations in which we are well acquainted and consequently endorse because they are doing such important work that we want our supporters to be made aware of them. If you are on CBR's mailing list and wish to not have your name shared with these organizations, you may contact us directly using the "Opt-Out" or "Modifying Your Information" procedures described below.

As with most other Internet sites, our Web servers utilize "cookies" to track your activity within our site as well as record your IP address. A cookie is a small data file that is stored on your computer. A cookie contains a unique identifying feature that allows our computer to recognize you when you return to the CBR site. The recorded IP address tells us which domain you visited from (for instance, aol.com), but not your e-mail address, name or other private and personal information. We use the information we record to help diagnose problems with our servers, to administer this Web site more effectively, and to gather broad demographic information about what countries and domains our visitors hail from and their behavior on our Web site.

In some cases our Web site uses securely encrypted contribution response forms when you provide information, request information, and make donations. We collect your willingly submitted contact information (such as your e-mail address), and financial information (such as a credit card type, number, and expiration date). Contact information from these response forms is used to process your donations, provide you receipts and provide you with other information about CBR.

To opt-out of receiving future communications, follow the "Opt-Out" and "Modifying Your Information" sections below.

If you choose to register through various "Join Our Mailing List"- or "Leave Feedback"-type features on our site, you may choose to give us certain contact information, such as your e-mail address. Unless you opt out, we may use your contact information to send you additional information about CBR and its programs. CBR may also use your voluntarily- provided contact information to contact you when necessary in order to resolve customer service issues or questions. To opt-out of receiving future communications, follow the "Opt-Out" and "Modifying Your Information" sections below.

Our online surveys may ask you for contact information (such as your e-mail address) as well as a variety of demographic and practical questions. We may use contact data from our surveys to send you information about CBR. To opt-out of receiving future mailings, follow the "Opt-Out" and "Modifying Your Information" sections below. CBR's donor information is kept secure by industry standard security practices.

CBR's Web site contains links to other sites. CBR is not responsible for the privacy practices or the content of such Web sites.
