Toes! Toes! Toes!!

When a two-year-old girl saw the prenatal science display in Knoxville's Market Square, she exclaimed, "Toes! Toes! Toes!!" Children get it. They call it as they see it. They don't try to explain away reality. Thank God for the openness and honesty of children.

Market Square is an excellent location for CBR educational displays, including the new prenatal science exhibit. Since the 1860's, Market Square has been a Knoxville gathering place, and people come there to shop, work, eat, and for concerts and events like Shakespeare on the Square. Its close proximity to the University of Tennessee also brings crowds. CBR's most recent use of Market Square was on October 17, 2025.

A gentleman visiting from Nashville was impressed with our prenatal science display, and he carefully studied all four sides of each of the 20 columns that are seven feet in height. He told us this was one of the most beautiful displays he had ever seen, and he was eager to invite his two exchange students to come over from University of Tennessee, Knoxville, to see it.

A young woman shared her opinion that the conversation about "choice" would be different if there were better care before and after pregnancy.

Much of the feedback from people in Market Square was positive, but a small number of adults revealed their confusion and even the darkness in their hearts when they saw our educational display. Three young women laughed and took "funny" photos with the display. It is likely that they felt threated by incontestable evidence that their defense of abortion is based on lies about the humanity of embryos and fetuses from the earliest stages of prenatal development. An older man nonsensically argued, "It's a shame Republicans don't care about them after they're born." Others might reasonably lament the shame of so many Democrats fighting for the right to kill babies before they are born, but our group wants to depoliticize this issue and show love for mothers and babies before and after birth. Children don't respond like this, and that innocence reinforces the need to reach them with photographic education before they get hardened by the world.

Little children in Knoxville were mesmerized when they saw the photographs on the prenatal science display in Market Square. They are drawn to preborn babies.

CBR-Sweden Director Becomes a TikTok Celebrity

Thanks to one of our volunteers in Sweden who is an expert in the use of TikTok, our CBR-Sweden Director, Mats Selander has become a celebrity on this social media platform. Each video features Mr. Selander in discussions with people at CBR-Sweden's pro-life sign displays in downtown Stockholm. Many of these videos show the abortion images in the background.

These convicting videos are reaching thousands of Swedes; with one video logging 2 million views! The current population of Sweden is over ten million, so since these views are individual people, this means that 1/5 of Swedish people have seen at least one video.

Thank God that He brings people who offer their talents to save more babies. We are also thankful that a platform which Satan has used for evil is being used to share the truth about life in the womb through our ministry. God is working worldwide.

We thank God that you stand with CBR in the cause for life.

"You make known to me the path of life; you will fill me with joy in your presence, with eternal pleasures at your right hand."
Psalm 16:11

Capital Campaign - Help CBR Be in Two Places at Once

The CBR Capital Campaign is underway to raise funds to purchase a second prenatal science exhibit of 20 seven-foot column signs with award-winning content, 20 A-frame signs, plus two Ford Transit trucks to transport the exhibit. With two exhibits, we can position one for displays on the East Coast and a second on the West Coast.

Our prenatal science project is vital because many Americans mistakenly believe the baby is a "blob of tissue" or a "clump of cells" during the first trimester, the stage of pregnancy during which 90% of abortions occur.

Our goal of $250,000 will enable us to purchase this second prenatal science exhibit, including the purchase and necessary modifications of two trucks. Thus far, through your generosity we have raised $1580. Note "Exhibit" in your check memo or online.

This project is beautiful and effective and we greatly need to double its influence on a confused culture.

CBR-Pakistan's Faithful Ministry

In their December 2025 newsletter, CBR-Pakistan shared powerful feedback from people with whom they have shared the message of the sanctity of life. Be encouraged by how God is using them to save babies from death.

"When we met your team, we were full of fear. We thought another baby was impossible for us. But your words gave us courage. Today our child is in our arms. We thank God for sending you." S and M, parents of a newborn baby

"My relative pressured me to take the wrong step. But after the visit from your team, I felt peace in my heart. I decided to keep my baby. I feel hope for my future now." R, 19, expectant mother

"Nobody comes to our area. But your volunteers came in rain and mud. We felt respected and remembered. Your prayers brought comfort to our whole family." D, brick kiln worker

"I felt very stressed and confused. Sister S prayed with me, and I felt God touch my heart. Now I am ready to welcome my third baby with faith." S, 26, mother of two

"We were thinking of ending the pregnancy because of financial problems. After your team explained the value of life, we changed our decision. We believe God will provide." F and N, young married couple

The wife of CBR-Pakistan's Director invited women to tea in her home when she was 8 months pregnant! She ministered to them and gave them hope. One attendee shared: "For the first time, I felt that my decisions mattered, and that I could protect this tiny life in my womb. I left her home with tears in my eyes, but my heart full of courage." Saima, at right, gave birth to these beautiful twins on December 13. Pray for God to continue to provide for Muqrab and Saima, and their baby girl (left) and baby boy (right).

Sharing CBR Resources and Strategies With More Countries

A woman named Carolina is a CBR-UK staff member who returned to her home country, Argentina, for a time. While there, she participated in the local March for Life and connected with various pro-life leaders. This led to her being part of a television panel of pro-life people including two lawyers, an educator, and a professional athlete. Carolina facilitated a subsequent meeting with pro-life leaders who wanted to learn more about CBR strategy. We had a Zoom call with several Argentinian leaders in the spring, and we look forward to seeing them implement our tactics. International pro-life activists continue to contact us every year, asking for resources, photos and strategy; and we are eager to share not only what has worked for decades for CBR, but also new strategies. Just a few weeks ago, a woman from the Netherlands requested permission to use our pictures and agreed to collaborate with our CBR affiliate in the Netherlands.
