Volunteers Needed No One Else is Doing What We Are Doing and We Can't Do It Alone

The church has largely turned its back on the unborn. Pew Research reports that among tens of thousands of sermons posted online during a 12-month period, only 4% even mentioned the word “abortion.” The Barna Group says that their survey of 500 evangelical pastors found that 80% were afraid to preach against abortion because they believed their seminary training failed to adequately prepare them to deal with controversial sin.

We focus on Christian audiences. If we don't reach the Christian students who will soon lead our churches, we will face another 50 years of failure regarding abortion.

Google reports that “In 2023, 69% of Americans surveyed by Gallup said that abortion should be legal in the first trimester, according to NBC News.

This figure is considered the highest share in Gallup's polling dating back to 1996. A similar Marist poll found that 66% of respondents support restricting abortion to, at most, the first trimester.

Our imagery gives students the resources they need to defend life online, where many spend too much of their time.

Support for abortion drops to about 37% in the second trimester, and 22% in the third. The public applies embryonic and fetal form and function criteria to formulate attitudes regarding abortion rights.

As pregnancy progresses along the gestational timeline, support for abortion rights diminishes as the baby is perceived to become sufficiently infant-like (possessing postnatal characteristics) to merit rights of personhood. New prenatal endoscopic video scans reveal a far more infant-like embryo and early fetus than has heretofore been commonly understood.

We have the only compelling depictions of the actual first trimester baby, alive in the womb, and this imagery enables us to fight abortion without even saying the word “abortion”.

But we need your help getting this imagery into the consciousness of future church leaders.

From its inception, CBR has relied on volunteers to fill a number of roles. We are disproportionately reliant on unpaid staff because we have never had enough money to hire professional fundraisers. As our public education projects have expanded, we need volunteers more than ever. Therefore, we need volunteers for the following vitally important tasks:

A CBR volunteer moves a 7' display column we designed and built with lightweight materials, making them easier to move and store.

Help us drive and maintain our vehicles:

- Drive the Ford Transit box trucks we use to transport our traveling prenatal education exhibits.
- Trips can involve local driving (less than one day), or out-of-state.
- Drive a pickup truck or minivan, which can be local driving (less than one day) or cross-country driving.
- Occasionally we need local help picking up and dropping off vehicles for maintenance and repairs.
- Our vehicles need periodic washing (particularly our Ford Transit box trucks).

Help us set up our outdoor displays.

Our exhibits must be set up and taken down. Our column displays might require work or out-of-state travel. We reach large numbers of passersby on college campuses and church attenders.

These tasks can include the unloading of trucks and the setting up of displays, as well as taking down the displays and reloading the trucks.

Help us set up and staff our indoor exhibit booth.

Our indoor work involves display booths at conferences and conventions in various states. Conference volunteers generally help with setting up and staffing booths, as well as disassembling and reloading the display at the end of the convention.

Online Research

Volunteers can help with online research projects.

Phone Calls

Volunteers can assist CBR with various types of calls.

If you are interested in any of these important volunteer roles: email info@cbrinfo.org .

Our video monitors show passersby actual endoscopic video scans of real babies, alive and moving in their mothers' wombs – and we have the original tapes which recorded these diagnostic and therapeutic scans from which our still images are derived.

Above - Many passersby photograph our imagery and then post it on social media, greatly multiplying the influence of our exhibits.

Left - During our exhibit booth at the American Association of Pro-Life Obstetricians & Gynecologists (AAPLOG) convention, we encountered a number of physicians who had never seen embryoscopy videos of preborn babies. We gave them resources they can use in their medical practice.

We have now made three visits to Christian university campuses, whereas in years past nearly no Christian universities would host meaningful pro-life displays. We emphasize the twenty scriptures which describe the process by which God creates us in His image.

Capital Campaign Update

The CBR Capital Campaign goal of $250,000 continues as we raise funds to purchase a second prenatal science exhibit of 20 seven-foot column signs with award-winning content, 20 A-frame signs, plus two Ford Transit trucks to transport the exhibit. Opportunities are arising for the East Coast and the West Coast, so it is apparent that we need a second exhibit. Thus far, through your generosity we have raised $19,195.00

CBR-UK Baby Save Testimony

Jenny, from CBR-UK's Kent team, shared this testimony from January. Two teenage sisters approached her after they walked by the CBR photo sign display. They kept going up and down the stairs [of the abortion building] and asking Jenny questions. Suddenly, one sister confessed that she was three weeks pregnant and considering aborting the baby. Although Jenny was stunned, she offered hope and help. Jenny learned that the family and the boyfriend were supportive, and Jenny encouraged the teen mother to carry to term, asking, "What's stopping you? You can do it." Soon, Jenny heard these wonderful words: "Well, you have saved a life today!" View a short video of Jenny sharing this story here:

At our exhibits, passersby see life-saving truth they are unlikely to get from the church or classroom, and certainly not from the news or social media. Saying “I have seen this before” is a false statement. We possess virtually the only prenatal endoscopic video in existence.
